

Save time with online doctor visits

RelayHealth®

You already know that doing business online saves time. And now, you can use the Internet to give your employees a time-saving way to manage their health care. How? By offering online doctor visits.

For routine care, online visits are a convenient alternative to phone calls or in-person appointments. By managing their care online, your employees spend less time away from work. That means they have more time to focus on your bottom line.

Through the secure services from RelayHealth, your employees can use a computer to “talk” with their doctors about routine health care needs. Online services work through a secure website, so your employees’ personal health details stay private.

Give your employees more time to focus on your bottom line.

Convenient services for your employees

Here are just some of the things your employees can do with online services:

- Make an appointment
- Get new prescriptions and refills
- Find out lab test results
- Get information about how to stay healthy

These convenient services do more than just help your employees manage their care. They can also encourage positive thinking about your health plan. The more you do for your employees, the more they’re likely to do for you.

See the doctor — online!

Your employees can also have an online webVisit® with their doctor for routine care. A webVisit is a structured online “interview” that asks a series of medical questions based on an employee’s specific symptoms.

A reimbursable online visit costs less than an in-office visit. Plus, your employees won’t need to take time off from work to see their doctor. And this service adds value to your existing benefits plans. Together, these advantages may mean a healthy savings for your business.

If you offer a consumer-directed health plan, online visits can be even more helpful. These visits support the goals of increased transparency and accountability. Online visits also give your employees the tools they need to better manage their health care, while making their dollars go further.
